

High Plains Technology Center is currently accepting applications for the position of

Director of Business and Industry Services (BIS)

This position requires an ability to effectively lead a team of people and manage numerous large projects at once.

This position oversees all training initiatives implemented or undertaken at High Plains, ranging from safety training and agriculture business to directing the school's Integrated Energy Training Center, featuring training programs in oil and gas, wind and solar. The person selected for this position will be able to effectively meet with CEOs, front-line workers, legislators and small business owners. This person must possess excellent public speaking and writing skills, including grant writing. This person will build relationships with prospective clients, from small companies needing one specific training need met to global companies developing partnering programs with the school to train existing employees. This person should continually be looking for new training initiatives while managing budgetary constraints and he/she must also possess a positive attitude and "can do" spirit.

Persons interested in this position should download and complete an application on the school's website at www.hptc.net or pick one up at 3921 34th Street.

Deadline to apply is March 19, 2010 or until a suitable applicant is found.
